Todd Larson Accepts Position with City of Yankton, South Dakota

Todd Larson, former Director of Parks and Recreation for the City of Orange City, began duties in early September as the Park and Recreation Director for the City of Yankton, South Dakota. He shares some information about his new position and the City of Yankton.

Yankton is a community of 14,000 people. It is located on the Missouri River, about an hour north and west of Sioux City. If you cross the bridge over the river, when you reach the other side you are in the state of Nebraska. There is a dam just outside of Yankton, and it provides a huge reservoir (lake) for recreation. The Lewis and Clark Recreation Area and Lake are a part of the state's park system. They estimate the lake brings 1.2 million tourists to Yankton and the surrounding area each year.

The Parks and Recreation Director in Yankton is responsible for the parks staff, budget and capital improvement planning; responsible for the recreation staff, programming, budget and capital improvement planning; cemetery staff, budget and capital improvement planning; community fitness center (attached to the public high school) staff, programming, budget and capital improvement planning; Fox Run Golf Course (18 hole public course) staff, budget and capital improvement planning. There is a Golf Advisory Board and a Parks and Recreation Advisory Board. I have 16 full-time employees that I oversee in parks, recreation, cemetery and golf.

Todd shares that he learned about the job through the National Recreation and Parks jobs listing on the website. He wanted the challenge of a bigger community and more full-time staff. "Yankton is growing," Todd stated, "and I believe there are some great opportunities for future growth and expansion, especially with the river and reservoir. I believe it will also provide me with a more active social life than Orange City. I would have loved to stay in Iowa, but had not had any luck with the job openings I had applied for and interviewed for in Iowa."

Ben Page Named to Des Moines Park and Recreation Position

Ben Page will assume the newly created position of Assistant Des Moines Park and Recreation Director on October 22, 2007. Ben has served as Director of the Manchester Park and Recreation Department since 2001 and has a degree in Leisure Services from the University of Northern Iowa.

Des Moines Parks and Recreation has recently re-engineered its internal organization to better accommodate the expanded demand for park and recreation facilities and programs in the community. That reorganization has created this Assistant Director position, which will have the office administration responsibilities of budget and accounting, revenue policy, safety, training, personnel and administrative office management; community relations; and management of three municipal golf courses. Two of Des Moines' major park attractions are managed through contracts; Ben will oversee the administration of those contracts. Furthermore Ben will be assigned the responsibilities of overseeing the opening of two major new park facilities in downtown Des Moines: Western Gateway Park and the Principal Riverwalk.

Des Moines Park and Recreation Director Don Tripp indicated the position aligns with the department's existing Park Manager and Recreation Manager positions and said, "We have found a person that is an outstanding candidate and park and recreation professional whom I am confident will fit well into this organization. Through all of the interviews and testing that was done, Ben came through as a very skilled professional with great vision and an uncanny ability to develop great relationships."

In accepting this new position, Ben stated, "I look forward to this amazing opportunity and to becoming a part of the City of Des Moines team. I am very excited to be working for this progressive and award-winning parks and recreation department."

Nick Schenck Accepts Newly-Created Position

The City of Adel is proud to announce that Nick Schenck of Fort Dodge has been hired as the City's first ever Parks and Recreation Director.

Nick grew up in Stanton, Iowa, in the southwest part of the state and received his Bachelor's Degree in Recreation and Park Management from Northwest Missouri State University in Maryville, MO. Nick comes to Adel from Fort Dodge where he held the position of Program Supervisor for Fort Dodge Parks and Recreation. As Program Supervisor, Nick was responsible for all Youth and Adult Sports Programs, special events, as well as athletic field care and maintenance at Harlan and Hazel Rogers Sports Complex in Ft. Dodge. Nick's fiancée Amber Turner is a second grade teacher at Van Meter Elementary School in Van Meter. They are both very excited about the position, and Adel! Nick will start his position on Tuesday, October 2nd and has already attended one Park Board meeting.

The hiring of a full time director is something the Adel Park Board has been working on for more than four years and set as a top priority when the board experienced almost complete turn over in members at that time. Eric Schepers, one of those new members four years ago, said "This is an important step for Adel as a community; we are excited to be able to increase the quality of life, services, and amenities available to the residents of this community".

Adel City Administrator, Chad Bird, states, "We see the creation of this position as the next step in helping Adel grow. As leisure activities become more important for smaller communities our park board has embraced the notion that it is quality of life amenities that help attract families to a community. With that in mind, the park board presented a solid plan of action to the city council. That plan includes physical improvements to the parks, looking at a new aquatic facility and the creation of a director's position. It is the hope of the board that new programs can be implemented that involve all age groups and abilities and cover a wide range of interests and skill levels. We hope to see Nick develop a relationship with the school and our new library facility in creating new and exciting programs for the residents of the community. The creation of the position and the hiring of Nick is the culmination of four years of vision and hard work by the park board as they strive to make Adel a great place to live and raise a family."
